Thank you for the clarification. Please coordinate with Greg on that issue as needed.

Thanks,
Sara

FRA needs to have an active generator EPA ID number to put on the hazardous waste manifest. The over 50 ppm PCB waste is regulated as a hazardous waste in California.

David,

Which EPA ID number are you referring to that FRA would need? I'm new to this matter and am only tackling TSCA-specific issues. There may be RCRA/state issues I'm not aware of.

Thanks,
Sara

Sara:

Does FRA need an active EPA ID No. in addition to the EPA ID No. for the transporter?

Thank you.

To clarify –EPA ID numbers are associated with transporters (not cleanup sites).

Hi Bob,

Good question. Are you using a third-party transporter that already has an EPA ID number? If so, that transporter will need to fill out a notification form for the TSCA waste and send it to EPA headquarters. Here is the form –

<https://www.epa.gov/pcbs/notifications-polychlorinated-biphenyl-pcb-activities>

(If you're planning to transport your own waste and don't already have your own EPA ID number, then yes, you'll need to get an EPA ID number first.)

Thanks,
Sara

Greg:

Do we need to obtain an EPA ID No. for the TSCA Soil to be sent to Kettleman Hills?

Should I contact Sara Ziff at EPA?

Thank you in advance for your assistance.
